Subject: Regarding starting the diagnostic courses for AYUSH post graduatesReference – The Gazette of India No. 93, Regd. No. D.L. 33004/99, Published dated 16-02-2022 And the PG syllabus of Roga Nidana subject

Respected Sir/Madam,

With reference to above mentioned subject, this is to bring your notice that Ayurvedic PG subject – Roganidana, deals with the diagnostic procedures. It includes ancient diagnostic techniques such as pulse examination to modern diagnostic radiological, pathological as well as electrophysiological techniques such as USG, CT Scan, MRI, ECG, EMG etc which are developed with technological advancement as per the era.

These modern diagnostic techniques are invented by foreign inventors of different streams of sciences and simply cannot be the ancestral or intellectual property of anyone but for the benefit of mankind. We have the equal right of using these techniques for making the diagnosis of diseases mentioned in our science such as Badhhagudodara (Intestinal Obstruction), Chhidrodara (Intestinal Perforation), Jalodara (Ascites), Udar Gulma (Abdominal malignancy), Mutra Ashmari (Urinary Calculus) etc. and also of the many new diseases diagnosed being the doctors of modern era.

Closing the doors of the knowledge for one stream of medical science, even in this advanced era is just like continuing the social untouchability (Asprushyata) practiced by some upper class peoples to keep their class dominance (Varna Varchasva). Our ancestors fought a long battle to get rid of this social injustice. And
