Subject – About duration of Ph.D. thesis submission*Reference – Ordinance issued by UGC in this regard

Dear Sir,

This is to bring your notice that, PhD in medical course is done in various subjects from nonclinical to clinical. The study design varies as per the subject. The research studies may be conducted on humans or animals as the case may be. The animal studies gets over within the time span of two months whereas studies involving humans may not also go beyond one year. The literary study may also get over by one year. Analysis of results and thesis preparation may require six months.

We do not understand the rationale to prevent the candidate from submitting the thesis even when he completes studies well in advance. This is against the principles of natural justice. Because of this irrational rule of UGC, candidate may actually lose a chance in appointments. Many universities, particularly the health universities have launched PhD course very late in their jurisdiction and have not conducted it regularly. For e.g. Maharashtra University of Health Sciences, Nashik, had conducted PhD entrance in 2016 and after that in the year April 2020. Hence, we request your intelligent self to allow the candidates with animal studies to submit their PhD thesis by the end of one year. For studies involving human volunteers, and literary research it should be allowed by the end of two years failing which we will have to knock the doors of the court for the same. Hoping for the needful.

Regards !
